Contribute to project

forking

- A fork generally refers to creating a copy of a repository.

- This copy allows you to make changes independently from the original repository.

- On GitHub, when you fork a repository, it creates a personal copy of the repository under your own account.